Provided by: Julie Bender-Sibbio RDN, LD/N

Clear out the harsh chemicals from your life and home using these easy and effective DIY Cleaners. Not only will your house smell amazing but you will rest assured that everyone in the family (including pets) will benefit from avoid harmful and toxic chemicals.

Tip on Which Essential Oils to Use:

High quality essential oils are popular these days from companies like DoTerra and Young Living. I love both and use both...however, if you are not read to invest in these you can find a lower quality replacement at your local health food store or at my on line formulary.

Containers You May Need:

My favorite spray bottles are amber glass spray bottles and containers that come in every shape and size and can be purchased on Amazon. For hand sanitizers and cleaners that are scrubbing pastes...I do use plastic containers. (Found at Amazon or places like Michael's)

Why Use Essential Oils for Cleaning?

- Essential oils have been shown to kill germs safely and effectively. They are nontoxic and do not pollute the environment or impact the water supply.
- Essential oils offer healthful benefits beyond cleaning and are uplifting and energizing...while eliminating any concern for toxic side effects.
- High quality oils are powerfully concentrated, so a little goes a long way!
- Saves money! Making your own cleaners will save your pennies and health. Win-win!

What Chemicals In Cleaners Are Harmful/Toxic?

- ✓ Phenols, used in disinfectants and toilet bowl cleaners are toxic to respiratory and circulatory systems.
- ✓ Formaldehyde, used in wick deodorizers and sprays, is a respiratory irritant and suspected carcinogen.
- ✓ Petroleum solvents in floor cleaner damage mucous membranes.
- ✓ Fragrances, used in cleaners cause respiratory irritation, headache, sneezing, and watery eyes for many. 1/3 of the substances used by the fragrance industry are toxic.

Consider Diffusing for a Clean & Calm Home

- Diffusing essential oils can be calming, relaxing, and invigorating. They can aid in enhancing quality sleep and mental clarity. You can choose to use one oil such as Lavender or oils blends or combine different oils.
- Diffusing oils also can effectively rid your home of airborne germs. Certain oils such as Lemon, Oregano, OnGuard/Theives, and others have been shown to kill staph A and pneumococcus bacteria. It has been reported that some hospitals are using this approach to fight infection.
